

Anne Hayes, Guest Editor,
ATOB Volume 14

Anne Hayes is the Chief Operating Officer (COO) of Inclusive Development Partners (IDP) and has more than 20 years of technical expertise focusing on disability-inclusive development and inclusive education working in more than 30 countries worldwide. She is the lead author of USAID's toolkit to Promote Literacy for Students with Disabilities and worked previously as the Director of Collaborative Initiatives at the World Bank's Global Partnership on Disability and Development, and as USAID's Disability and Gender Specialist. Ms. Hayes also participated extensively in NGO efforts related to the drafting of the United Nations Convention for the Rights of People with Disabilities (CRPD). As an independent consultant she supported disability-inclusive development and inclusive education programming for various civil society organizations, disabled persons organizations (DPOs) and UN Agencies.

She has published several guides, documents, and articles related to inclusive education and inclusion of persons with disabilities international development and humanitarian programs. Anne has a Master's in International Education with an emphasis on inclusive education policies from the George Washington University. She is also the proud mother of two children, one of whom has a disability and uses assistive technology to communicate and demonstrate literacy skills.
